Clearly there is no other artist comparable to Ernie K-Doe, a fact he frequently confirms. Ernest Kador was born February 22, 1936 at New Orleans' Charity Hospital. "On the day I was born the building (Charity) went to shaking and the walls went to trembling," claims K-Doe. "The people there was running and yelling because they didn't know what to do. Finally somebody said "What's happening on the fifth floor?" The nurses said, "Ain't but one thing it could be. It has to be a boy child and it has to be a K-Doe!".

These K-Doe tracks were recorded by New Orleans producer/bandleader Milton Battiste in the mid 1990's. K-Doe reprises several of his own classic crowd pleasers "Certain Girl", "Hello My Lover" and "Tain't It The Truth." He also adeptly handles R&B standards like "Honest I Do." Never an artist to confine himself to one particular style K-Doe also tackles funk, jazz and reggae on this CD.

Perhaps he says it best when he pointed out: "Ernie K-Doe can sing any song, any place. He's a one of a kind artist."
