"When Marva Wright takes the stage - explosions occur - the spine tingles and adrenaline rises, for here live is a singer who touches the deepest recesses of the human soul with the most powerful voice out of New Orleans today. There are singers in bands all over the U.S.A. who won't allow Marva Wright to be their opening act, and I am talking about major stars - they simply can't follow her onto the same stage, and achieve the same level of intensity of human emotion that Marva Wright reaches every time she walks on stage.

Marva Wright has made three albums previously; "Heartbreakin' Woman" on the Tipitina's label being her first in 1990. On this recording she showed her Blues credentials to be major league. Next came "Born With The Blues" on the French Sky Ranch/Virgin label in 1993, which established Marva Wright as a star in Europe and where she showed that not only does she have what it takes to sing the Blues, but Soul and New Orleans Funk as well. Due to her popularity, Marva recorded another Blues album for the Swiss label Blues House in 1994.

Now, in 1995 it has all come together - Marva Wright in a New Orleans studio with the very best New Orleans musicians, female backing vocalists, and violins showing proof positive that not only does Marva Wright have the Blues down pat, she can also claim serious contender status in Soul, Urban R & B, and just about everything else.
